Before I came to Ireland I studied the English Language in Egypt for about 13 years at school then at college, So I knew all about language skills and language system as well, But coming to Ireland made me practice this language with native speakers which really improved my language. We had an excellent group of teachers, They were really willing to help us and answer all our questions in a very easy way to make language much easier to us, They were very friendly as well and joined us on our trips, They taught us the English language in a very communicative way and They were very friendly as well.

Staying at Manor Village was wonderful. It's a very nice and cozy place and clean as well. The apartments were designed in a way to keep you with your friends but still you can have privacy in your own room, which also got internet connections. I loved the kitchen because it contained everything anyone would ever need to prepare a meal. Manor village also have a very nice games room.

Ireland is really a nice country, I almost knew nothing about it until I came and went to those trips and visited all those places which made me and my friends know a lot about Irish history and culture. What I really loved about Ireland is the Irish people; people are really friendly, They always treated us in a kindly way and they were always willing to help us. I love Ireland and Irish people and I wish I can come again and stay there for the rest of my life.
